1. An analog display uses a ________ to show the value, whereas a digital display uses __________. Page ___

2. Most analog dash displays use a __________ to move the needle. Page ___

3. The first step when diagnosing a fault with the night vision system is to _______________. Page ___

4. A ____________ dash display is similar to a television tube or LCD display. Page ___

5. The output of a PM generator speed sensor is an AC voltage that varies in frequency and amplitude with increasing vehicle speed. Page ___
6. A/An __________ is a dash display that indicates the total miles traveled by the vehicle.

7. The only difference between a digital fuel level gauge and a conventional needle type is in the __________

8. The ____________________ uses 24 satellites in orbit around the earth to provide signals for navigation devices.

9. A/An __________ is used to display the area at the rear of the vehicle in a screen display on the dash when the gear selector is placed in reverse.

10. The ___________________________ uses cameras to detect if the vehicle is crossing over lane marking lines on the pavement.